

Birzeit University's Institute of Women's Studies' 8th annual conference

Gender in Palestine: Approaches to Policies and Practice

The conference considers the current policies and institutional strategies related to gender issues and seeks to review the analytical frameworks, concepts, and methodologies adopted by governmental and nongovernmental actors as well as funding institutions active in the gender and development field. The conference focuses on assessing the links between the policies and practices of gender and development in Palestine and the achievement of community steadfastness, social justice and gender equality.

The conference brings together academics and activists through interventions on gender-specific issues in Palestine.
